—Miss Elsie Singmaster has gone on a trip to New York and Boston.

—Dr. and M. T. L. McCarter, of Baltimore, are visiting relatives in town.

—Herbert A. Bream of Baltimore, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bream over Sunday.

Thanksgiving Week Weddings.
DE VAN—McCOSH.—Under an arch of chrysanthemums and smilax in St. Marks Lutheran church of Hanover, on Tuesday evening of last week, Miss Louise B. McCosh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. McCosh, of Hanover, and Rugeley Pierson De Van, of Oklahoma City, were united in marriage by Dr. C. M. Stock. The wedding party entered the church preceded by the ushers in the following order: Three bridesmaids—Miss Elizabeth Trexler, of Sunbury, Pa.; Miss Elizabeth Stamm, Wheeling, W. Va.; and Miss Edna Tudor, Gettysburg. They wore gowns of white satin, with an overdress of American beauty chiffon, with crystal trimmings, and carried muffs of bride's roses and maiden-hair fern. Following came the maid-of-honor, Miss Lena Little De Van, of Philadelphia, a sister of the groom, who, in carrying out the wedding scheme of white and pink, wore white satin, with overdress of pale pink, pearl and rhinestone trimming. The matron-of-honor, Mrs. Robert Oglesby Wirt, sister of the bride, wore white satin, with overdress of dainty pink, and crystal trimmings and embroidery. Each carried a large arm-bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. Preceding the bride, on the arm of her father, was the flower page, Master Richard McCosh Wirt, nephew of the bride, who was dressed in white linen and bore a basket of rose petals. The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of ivory satin royale, trimmed in pearls and princess lace, with court train. Her tulle veil was caught up with a coronet of orange blossoms. The only jewelry worn was a pearl brooch with diamond setting, the gift of the groom. A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride, and bride and groom then left for an eastern trip and returning to Hanover for a short visit will go to their western home.

Thursday Evening of Institute.

The concluding entertainment of Institute will be "The International Sextette" and six young ladies will present and interpret six different types in costume, motion, picture and song. The Irish, witty and winsome, German, chic and artistic, Japanese, dainty, Spanish, fantastic and gaudy, German, classic, and American, vim and vigor. The entertainment comes highly recommended as both delightful and unusual.

TEACHERS' CO. INSTITUTE

BEGAN MONDAY AND HELD FOR FIRST TIME IN BRUA CHAPEL.

Dr. P. M. Biele Made Address of Welcome and Instruction by Lectures Started.

The fifty-sixth annual meeting of the teachers of the county convened in Brua Chapel, Monday, Nov. 28th at 1.30 p. m. with Supt. H. M. Roth in the chair. On the second page of this paper will be found a complete list of the teachers of County for the present year.

Prof. Thomas Gibson of Baltimore who has been the popular musical instructor at the institute for several years led the singing.

Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Henry Anstadt of the College Lutheran church, reading part of St. Paul's 12th epistle, and offering prayer by asking the blessing of the Almighty upon all those connected with the institute, and also upon their work.

The Executive committee being called upon for their report, it was submitted by their chairman William H. Sharetts, and upon motion accepted.

Prof. Gibson gave the teachers a drill in singing the scale.

A short address was delivered by County Supt. H. M. Roth in which he said he had put forth every effort to arrange a good program.

Prof. Gibson is known to the teachers, so also are Drs. Gordinier and Ellis who have appeared here at former institutes. Dr. Willis comes from the Buckeye state. He has lectured to many institutes throughout the West as well as in several counties in our own State. Recently he was elected to a seat in the United States Congress.

Prof. Roth then announced the entertainments for the evenings. He said he trusted the teachers would have a delightful week of pleasure and of study, that the place of assembly would be satisfactory. In conclusion he announced that admission would be given only between the lectures, and explained the method of recording attendance.

Dr. Granville being out of town the address of welcome was given by Dr. P. M. Biele, Dean of the College as follows:

Address of Welcome.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is highly gratifying to me to extend to you, the teachers of Adams county, words of welcome to your annual institute. It would be so were you to hold your sessions anywhere else in Gettysburg but, as a college man, it is a special pleasure to welcome you to hold them here in one of our college halls.

We are engaged in the same work, whether we teach in the ungraded country school, the town or city high school, or the college or university; and it is altogether fitting that we should show our comradeship in the sharing of any facilities we may have at our disposal. Be assured, then, that Brua Memorial Chapel is yours for this week, and any courtesies you may extend to us here on the ground will be appreciated.

I have said that we are engaged in the same work; and, if I should say, too, that it is one of the noblest employments that can engage human effort, who is there that will gainsay it? He who helps us physically, making our bodies healthier, stronger, more symmetrical, does well. He who does the same for our minds, does better. He who helps our moral and spiritual well-being, does best of all. But our work covers all three. It is ours to take the plastic natures of young people and to train them to take better care of themselves, to think, to know, to grow into better neighbors and citizens, to live uprightly, and in every way become better men and women.

The old Stoics used to say that there were four cardinal virtues which entered into the make-up of the ideal man. These were wisdom, justice, courage, and self-control. And who will say that the true teacher does not inculcate all four? True, the mental development is conceded to be the chief part of his work and wisdom is not only the first but the main feature of his duty, but where will you find the true teacher who will not also inculcate uprightness of character, courage to stand for what is right, and self-control, whether it be in eating or drinking or in the domain of the human passions? In the community you stand for all these yourselves, and any shortcoming will be counted greatly to your discredit. It is not enough for the teacher to be qualified intellectually, and nothing more. He must be of high moral character, a good neighbor, a law-abiding citizen, a man who has convictions and is prepared to stand by them. And these same virtues he will instill in the minds of the young people he is to train.

But, while all this is true, and true as it can be, it is you who are expected to be special devotees of Minerva. You know the story of her coming fully equipped out of the wise head of Jupiter. And she seems to have eclipsed in wisdom the father of gods himself. She was the most faithful and sagacious of all her father's counselors. We speak of her merely as the goddess of wisdom, but she was more. She had the power to bestow the gift of prophecy. While she was the patroness of learning, science and art, she was particularly so when these contributed to human welfare and happiness. It was her special duty to protect the State and all associations making for peace. She encouraged the maintenance of law and order and defended the right on all occasions. For example, she espoused the cause of the Greeks in the Trojan war because Menelaus was the one who was wronged and Paris was the one who did the wrong. After all, we get back again to the basis of the Stoics, for Minerva was not only the goddess of wisdom but she was a patroness of justice, of patriotism, of courage, of industry, and of all that contributes to the best personal make-up.

Sometimes you may think your work is not appreciated. And true it is that some do not rate it at its full value. And yet let there be an attack on our public school system or its inadequately paid teachers, and how soon will defenders arise and vigorously answer the assailants. Some of you may be quite ready to endorse what a teacher just a few days ago in the "Philadelphia Press" said: Here it is:

"I had my illusions when I became a teacher, but they all have been shattered. Flattering orators and editors to the contrary notwithstanding, ours is a profession that has little standing and less influence in the community. It is all very fine to boast about our glorious public school system but, for the sake of justice, let there be cash and real consideration as well as glory."

We can echo the wish for more cash and real consideration, but we think the real estimate of the community as to the value and influence of the body of our public school teachers is not given its true weight. And our glorious public school system is still glorious, notwithstanding this complaint.

If you want to see the value put upon it follow a man buying real estate and notice the estimate he puts upon the nearness or remoteness of the little red school house.

Furthermore, one of the greatest comforts of your work is the gratitude that follows it. How do you feel towards the faithful teacher of years ago? For myself, next to my parents, I cherish greater gratitude to no one than to the man under whom I was a pupil for seven or eight years of my boyhood. I can heartily say with Whitier in his poem entitled "To My Old Schoolmaster": "I when 'Looking back to that far day, And thy primal lessons feel, Grateful smiles my lips unseal. As remembering thee, I blend Olden teacher, present friend."

No, fellow teachers, your work may be underpaid, and sometimes may be wearisome and seem unappreciated, but the real value of it is recognized in the minds of all who give it thought. No tax is popular but the least unpopular is the school tax, for from that more than from any other the people feel that they are having "value received."

Enter upon this week, then, justly magnifying your office and with eagerness receive the instruction and inspirations that will be helpful and stimulating in your work throughout the year. And let me repeat the assurance of welcome to this annual feast of good things, and to Brua Chapel where you are to enjoy it.

The response was delivered by J. Willard Bucher in a few well chosen words in which he showed appreciation of the cordial welcome just given, and the expectation of a profitable week.

Dr. Gordinier's First Address

"The First Lesson" was the subject of a helpful talk, by Dr. Chas. H. Gordinier, of C. V. S. N. S.

The first lesson is important because it is the most comprehensive. The first and most important lesson for the child to learn is obedience. The compliance of obedience indicates authority. Authority was classified into divine, human, institutional, (school, church, state,) individual, (teacher,) natural, (creator parent) assumed, (monarchical,) delegated and (representative.)

The teacher represents the parent; hence his authority is natural, it is natural, it is also delegated, therefore he has all the authority necessary to enforce the law.

The ideal life, is the life of perfect obedience to law because it leads to success. Obedience means gain; disobedience, loss. This statement was proved by an illustration of a cold, resulting from the violation of a natural law. Moses was a great leader because he obeyed the word of God, yet in one instance he was disobedient and lost, dying in sight of the promised land.

Dr. Willis on Study of History.

After an exercise in music, Dr. Frank B. Willis, of Ada, Ohio, was introduced and held the undivided attention of the audience for half an hour in a discourse on the Study of History.

After mentioning the pleasure it gave him to visit Gettysburg, the speaker took up the what, why and how of history. Defining history negatively he said history is not a collection of curious information; it does not deal only in the past with dead, misty facts, but with the present and future, with real, living beings. Study should have one of four objects: to get information, to help in other studies, discipline or culture. The study of history possesses the first object, and more, the proper study of it leads to better citizenship.

Monday Evening.

The evening's entertainment, "The Two Confederates" was unique in several ways. Polk Miller and "Tom" Hooker assisted by the Miller Quartette of Virginia Negroes, reproduced in song and story the Southern life on the old plantations. The absence of all make up added interest to the entertainment and there was a naturalness that greatly pleased. This part of the entertainment was preceded by a display of stereopticon pictures by Alice M. Zierden, being such pictures any teacher could use in her school to illustrate subjects taught.

Will the Hotel Men Make Good?

Justice of the Peace Harnish heard within the last few days the five cases brought by the Retail Merchants' Association against five of the hotel proprietors of this place for alleged subscription made by them to the National Guard fund, which was necessary to collect to help pay toward the land rentals on the ground occupied by the Guard.

The first suit heard was on last Friday against Ben F. Kindig, of the Wabash Hotel for a subscription of $7 and on Saturday morning Justice Harnish gave judgment to the Merchants' Association for that sum with interest.

The second case Friday morning was against Mrs. Elise Braunreuter, proprietress of Battlefield Hotel, for a $50 subscription and decision was reserved until today, Wednesday.

On Friday afternoon the case against Charles Strassbaugh, proprietor of Washington Hotel, was heard for a $25 subscription and on Saturday judgment was entered against him for the same with interest.

On Monday afternoon the case against P. M. Bruner, proprietor of the City Hotel for a $75 subscription was heard and decision reserved until today, Wednesday.

The last case heard Monday afternoon was that against John Fagen, proprietor of the Globe Hotel, for a $50 subscription and at the conclusion Mr. Fagen voluntarily paid the amount of his subscription.

The defenses were that contributions were made conditionally, that no foreign beer was sold during the encampment on the ground. Those taking the subscriptions testifying that there were no conditions to the subscription, while defendant testifying to conditions.

The association has already obtained judgment for a $100 subscription made by D. B. Carroll, proprietor of the Gettysburg Hotel.

The cases brought to light certain evidence and this evidence asks the questions of every hotel man whether he is going to make good to the business interests of this community by helping to pay the land rentals which had to be promised to be paid in part or the encampment would never have come to this place.

This testimony showed that during N. G. P. week the Wabash bar receipts were $1200 as against $2200 of two years ago and the Battlefield Hotel $900 as against $1300 two years ago. Assuming these figures to be correct the bar receipts of the hotels sued must look something like the following: the Globe Hotel $1200, the City Hotel $1200, Washington House $900, Hotel Gettysburg $2000, and adding these together the six hotels would have a total of bar receipts of $7,400. Now if the bar receipts of the six hotels were $7,400 for one week, then for the four weeks of the U. S. camp they were over $28,000, or for both encampments the bars of the six hotels must have taken in a total of from $35,000 to $40,000. We believe that those best acquainted with the matter will say our figures are very low and conservative and that the total must have been much more. Remembering a statement made by a hotel proprietor that the cost of what is sold at the bar is one-fifth of what is received, the six hotels must have cleared a goodly sum.

This condition asks in the most emphatic way whether the hotel proprietors of this town are going to let the business men of the town do all the work of getting encampments here while they hold in their fists all the profits they have made. So again the question stares the hotel proprietors in the face, are they going to make good to the business interests of this place by sharing the burden of getting the encampment? Are they going to follow the example of John Fagen by paying the amount for which suit was brought? Do they or do they not want the good will of the business interests of their own community?

Wednesday Evening of Institute.

The Rawels, a company of gifted native New Zealanders, will give the Wednesday evening entertainment of the Teachers' Institute. The family are native Maoris and are handsome specimens of their race and in their exhibition wear the queer but picturesque costumes of the native islanders and present in music, song and story, a most unique and fascinating portrayal of native life in the South Sea Islands. They hold the audience under a spell of fascination by the weird ballads, the love songs, the canoe choruses, the war chants and incantations, the quaint descriptions of the native customs and the numerous beautiful pictures of the marvelous island scenery. This is the entertainment that should not be missed.

For quality, price and stock in Furniture, we cannot be equalled.

$5,495 DAMAGES AWARDED

ONE OF LARGEST VERDICTS FOR PERSONAL INJURIES IN COUNTY

Story of the Case of Josephine Smith vs. Littlestown, and the Medical Battle Involved.

The case of Josephine Smith vs. The Borough of Littlestown began on Monday afternoon of last week did not end with a verdict until Saturday morning. The taking of the evidence consumed Tuesday and Wednesday. A recess was taken over Thursday and the testimony was concluded Friday morning and the afternoon was devoted to the addresses of the attorneys and charge of the Court, and in the week-ends of Saturday morning at about half-past 2 o'clock, after being out nine hours, the jury finally agreed upon a verdict of $5,495 damages for the plaintiff, and signing and sealing such verdict, the same was brought into court and made known at the Saturday morning session, and was one of the largest verdicts for personal injuries given in our courts.

The case developed a number of interesting facts. The Keopert property in Littlestown has an opening in front to give light to basement rooms and this opening is about seven feet long, two feet wide and a foot and a half deep. The plaintiff is a Hanover dressmaker and went to Littlestown on evening of June 21, 1909, by trolley to see a parade and shortly after her arrival walked up street in Littlestown accompanied by Mrs. Kate Bange of Hanover, and a Mr. Wisotzky. They were walking three abreast and when they came to the Keopert property where pavement is narrowed by reason of the porch and steps, Mr. Wisotzky stepped back and the two women went forward. Having passed the porch Mr. Wisotzky again joined the women, being between them and this caused Miss Smith to move toward the house and she stepped into the hole along the Keopert house just beyond the porch. The night was dark, being at the dark of the moon and the nearest electric light was one hundred and seventy-one feet distant.

The plaintiff was taken at once to a hotel and Dr. H. E. Gettler sent for, who advised that she be taken to her home at once. He bandaged the ankle. Being taken to Hanover the family physician, Dr. M. M. Fleagle, was sent for and took charge of the case and Miss Smith was confined to her bed until some time in September, 1909, when she walked about her room for the first time with the help of her physician. She has been walking with the help of crutches since that time.

There was a medical battle royal between physicians of plaintiff and for the defendant. In August 1910, the plaintiff was examined by Dr. Hendricks and Dr. Bittinger of Hanover, and Dr. A. C. Rice of McSherrystown, who testified in detail as to their examination and in conclusion expressing the opinion that the paralysis of leg of plaintiff was organic and incurable and was caused by the fall. On the other hand Drs. Henry Stewart and J. P. Daibey testified as to an examination made of the plaintiff under direction of an order of the Court on behalf of the defendant and they found a paralysis on the other side of leg and partial on inner side and were of the opinion that the paralysis was functional and curable. The physicians presented reasons for their conclusions and it was up to the jury to decide from the evidence what the damages should be.

There was no way for the defendant to escape a verdict and the whole fight was as to the size of the verdict. The plaintiff had asked for $10,000 and defendant contended if the paralysis was functional and curable a much smaller verdict should be given than for an organic and incurable condition.

Miss Smith lived in Frederick, Md., before moving to Hanover, and gave some testimony as to her earning capacity as a dressmaker which elicited much interest and was offered for the purpose of affecting the jury in determining the amount of the verdict. The case called forth more than the usual interest given court cases. The attorneys conducting the same were Eberhart and Fance, Esqs., of Hanover, and Charles S. Duncan, Esq., for the plaintiff, and the Borough of Littlestown having notified the Keoperts to help to defend the case, W. C. Sheely, Esq., represented the Borough and John D. Keith, Esq., the owners of the Keopert property. The defendant will ask for a new trial and assign reasons for same and it is likely that after same have been disposed of, the Appellate Court will have a chance to review the case.

Orchard Demonstrations.
State Economic Zoologist H. A. Surface announced last week a series of orchard demonstrations to show to the fruit growers what can be done by them during the cold weather of the late autumn and early winter. Those arranged for Adams county are the following: Dec. 12 and 13 in orchard of Mrs. Dr. Weaver near New Oxford; Dec. 14 and 15 in orchard of R. H. Lapp near Biglerville.

Great Football Season.

The Thanksgiving football game at Lancaster ended the season with a victory for Gettysburg over Franklin and Marshall by score of 9 to 8. Three thousand spectators witnessed one of the most brilliantly played games ever played between the teams. A very large delegation from Gettysburg took in the game and helped the Orange and Blue with rooting and cheers. Dayhoff practically won the game for Gettysburg by dropping a field goal from the 26 yard line. It was the decisive struggle of the season for both teams, rivals for 16 years, and the game broke a tie of eight victories for each team. The eleven were evenly matched except Gettysburg had the advantage of some weight. F. and M. resorted to tactics made possible by the new rules that did Gettysburg, particularly in forward passing.

The game opened by Gettysburg kicking off and in a very few minutes after play had begun F. & M. by Gettysburg's fumbles gained possession of the ball on the 5 yard line. Then did the Orange and Blue perform a feat of strength by holding F. & M. for downs. They kicked the ball into safe territory and Jaeger, Bridenbaugh and Saylor by end runs rushed it for about 50 yards. An exchange of kicks followed, and toward the end of the quarter F. & M. lost the ball on an illegal forward pass. Gettysburg then used center rushes, and the period ended with the ball in midfield. In the next period Lawyer and Bridenbaugh made good gains and the ball changed possession on a fumble. Saylor blocked a kick and G. Hartman carried the pigskin on the next play, but in a short time it was lost on a forward pass. With the ball on the F. & M. 10 yard line, Comfort blocked a kick by Bridenbaugh and the ball bounded directly into his hands, and he caught and carried it over for a touchdown. Bridenbaugh then kicked the goal. Bridenbaugh ran 20 yards after receiving a kick, and after Gettysburg got the ball big gains were made by Lawyer and Bridenbaugh, but the ball was finally lost on downs. After a number of kicks the period ended with the ball in midfield. F. & M. then started off with a rush, and taking advantage of fumbles by Gettysburg, Jaeger, Bridenbaugh and G. Hartman made big gains. R. Hartman made 20 yards on a forward pass, and placed the ball on the 7 yard line. Gettysburg was then penalized 5 yards for an off-side play, and Weller by a line buck carried it over for a touchdown, and Bridenbaugh kicked the goal. Following this F. & M. got a safety which gave them credit for two points. The ball was rushed back and forth and there were numerous exchange of punts. Gettysburg came in possession of it on the 25 yard line after a forward pass, and at this point Dayhoff tried for a field goal and made it which won the game by one point.

Gettysburg has had a most brilliant season winning the three big games from Bucknell, Dickinson and Franklin and Marshall and great credit is due to the careful and conscientious training received at the hands of Coach Vail. Better ball has been played because of the results of better training. The games of the season were as follows:

Gettysburg 11, Middletown 0.
Gettysburg 9, Pennsylvania 29.
Gettysburg 2, St. John's 0.
Gettysburg 2, Indiana 20.
Gettysburg 24, Lebanon Valley 9.
Gettysburg 0, Lafayette 21.
Gettysburg 9, Bucknell 6.
Gettysburg 10, Dickinson 3.
Gettysburg 9, F. & M. 8.
Games won, 6 lost 2.

Two Cases of Blood Poisoning.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Eckenrode of this place are unfortunate in having two cases of blood poisoning in their family.

Roy Eckenrode is suffering with a sore hand. About two weeks ago when cutting steel pipe some small particles of steel penetrated the skin between the thumb and forefinger which could not be located for some days, the steel was finally removed, but the hand continued to grow worse and blood poisoning has developed. Dr. Hartman has charge of the case.

Frank Eckenrode of McSherrytown is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Eckenrode. He cramped his wrist and in doing so broke the skin slightly, which caused an intense pain. Later the wound became very much swollen and blood poisoning developed. Dr. Rice of McSherrytown has charge of the case. Neither of the young men are improved at this writing.

Temporary Heat Quickly

Did you ever stop to think of the many ways in which a perfect oil heater is of value? If you want to sleep with your window open in winter, you can get sufficient heat from an oil heater while you undress at night, and then turn it off. Apply a match in the morning, when you get out of bed, and you have heat while you dress.

Those who have to eat an early breakfast before the stove is radiating heat can get immediate warmth from an oil heater, and then turn it off. The girl who practices on the piano in a cold room in the morning can have warmth from an oil heater while she plays, and then turn it off. The member of the family who has to walk the floor on a cold winter's night with a restless baby can get temporary heat with an oil heater, and then turn it off. The is invaluable in its capacity of quickly giving heat. Apply a match and it is immediately at work. It will burn for nine hours without refilling. It is safe, smokeless and odorless. It has a damper top and a cool handle. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font.

It has an automatic-locking flame spreader which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that the wick can be cleaned in an instant.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, and can be quickly unscrewed for reworking. Finished in Japan or nickel, strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

THE GIBSON FAMILY REUNION

An Excellent, Delightful Entertainment by Local Talent.

The "Gibson Family Reunion" given on Thanksgiving evening for the benefit of the town Y. M. C. A. was a most delightful and charming entertainment. Walters' Theatre was packed and every one thoroughly enjoyed the performance from the time the curtain raised until the end. The entire cast with all choruses was made up of local talent, with the exception of the part taken by the director, Miss Anna Manges and her assistant.

The entertainment opened with a chorus of about sixty little girls. They completely filled the stage, all dressed in white frocks with big red ribbon bows on their heads. They sang the "Boogie Woogie" in the cutest way. They had been well drilled and entered into the singing and acting with a vim and delighted the audience.

Twenty little boys then came on the stage and sang "Playing Hooker" and they did it with the boyish flavor that simply tickled the audience and when they left the stage playing leap-frog the audience was simply convulsed with shouts of laughter.

The third opening chorus, "Yip-I-Addy-I-Ay," was led by Miss Gladys Raymond with a chorus of about twenty young girls, dressed in white with red aprons and red caps and they captured the house with their singing and drill and responded to an encore.

The first part of the "Gibson Family Reunion" was then presented and each part was excellently taken. The cast was as follows:

Mrs. Sadie Gibson, Miss Maud Miller; Mr. Job Gibson, Mr. Durbin Ott; Miss Phyllis Gibson, Miss Ruth Baehler; Miss Caroline Gibson, Miss Jeanne Sieber; Ted Lorraine, Mr. Maurice Baker; Molly Kelly, Miss Anna Manges; Billy O'Lee, Billy O'Lee; Hans, Mr. Ernest Ziegler; Miss Reynolds; Miss Marguerite Weaver; Duke of Waterbury, Mr. George Hartman; Col. Gibson, Mr. Calvin Hartman; Cousin Cousin, Miss Lillie Dougherty.

Mrs. Gibson had just returned from a Woman's Suffrage meeting at Douthettville and determined to give an entertainment at her own home and the second part of the program was made of the singing and choruses at her garden party. During the first part Billy O'Lee sang "Gee, but there's Class to a Girl Like You" and "What's the Matter with Gibson" was sung by Calvin Hartman and male chorus.

The entertainment of Mrs. Gibson, the second part of the program, opened with a beautiful stage setting and Mrs. Roy Zinn and chorus in song "For You Bright Eyes."

Miss Laura Spangler led the chorus "Texas," eight girls in cowboy costume with their western song proved to be a very catchy number.

Military Mary Ann was a chorus made up of eight girls in milkmaid garb of white dresses, blue aprons and blue caps and the eight boys in uniform, and their singing and dancing greatly pleased the audience.

One of the most picturesque numbers of the evening was the "Automobile Chorus" led by Mrs. Roy Zinn. The automobile was outlined by six young girls, two with the headlights of the auto and the other four twirling white parasols for the wheels of the auto.

The Japanese Song was a catchy number. It was led by Miss Helen Rupp with a chorus of a dozen girls. They were dressed in Japanese costume, with fans and was most attractive.

"Little Miss Up-to-Date" was led by Miss Pauline Rudisill. The chorus, with yellow poms of fur decorated the stage, with their singing and acting.

"I Want a Gibson Man" was sung by Mrs. Roy Zinn and a chorus of eight girls and boys. The girls were dressed in white with pink bonnets, and the drill work and singing captured the audience.

The closing number of the program was "Rocking" led by Calvin Hartman, with a large chorus composed of a large part of those who had taken part in the different numbers. The special feature was the "Rocking" with the girls of the same outfit as the girls of the "Boogie Woogie" and with a drill and singing captured the audience.

Mrs. Gleason Sued in York.

Mrs. Matilda Gleason, life tenant of the Spangler buildings on the southeast corner of the Diamond, was defendant in a suit in the York county court last week. The plaintiffs were Charles W. and Granville H. Shartzers, contractors and builders, doing business in York. They contended that on May 25, 1909, they were consulted by Mrs. Gleason as to the most advantageous way of utilizing a vacant lot that she owned at the southwest corner of Queen street and a private alley, near York street. They advised her to build a brick house thereon, which they would be willing to put up by contract for $1,000 with the privilege of using a lot of old materials belonging to Mrs. Gleason. Sometime later Mrs. Gleason asked them whether or not it was possible to reduce the cost to $500, and plaintiffs told her that it might be done if the work was given out by the day instead of by a lump contract. This seemed to be the starting point of negotiations between the parties, but as time went on one change after another was suggested by the Shartzers to Mrs. Gleason and said to have been agreed to by her, as to the manner of building and as to the nature of the improvements to go into the house, until when the job was finished Mrs. Gleason was presented with a bill for $2,218.33. To this she objected because she claimed it was exorbitant and not according to any contract or agreement made by her. The suit came to an end last Saturday morning by the entering of a voluntary non-suit against the plaintiffs at their own request. The lien for $2,218.33 which plaintiffs were trying to collect was also stricken from the record, at their cost, without prejudice to their right to bring an action on the general contract for the recovery of such sums as may be due them.

The difficulty which confronted the plaintiffs in the suit was their inability to prove the quantity and value of the labor and materials which went into the Queen street property. This arose principally because at the time the Queen street house was being erected they were also remodeling other houses for Mrs. Gleason, and the charges for all properties were lumped upon their books and papers, so that they could not be separated.

In the suit on trial it was allowable to prove only the items going into the Queen street house and the impossibility of doing this became so apparent that plaintiffs were driven to ask for a non-suit against themselves. This, however, does not preclude them from bringing suit in assumption against Mrs. Gleason for the amount due on the entire work, and unless matters are amicably adjusted between them, this is what plaintiffs must do to recover the money alleged to be due them.

Snyder, tried at the November court and was put on probation, returned to his Wayneboro home to face a larceny charge before Justice of the Peace Potter of his town charging him with theft of two chicken coops and a crate of 30 dozen eggs from the Hoover mill. The charge was based on a sworn statement made by Unger J. Snyder while in jail at this place, Snyder saying, Tomas and Riffe told him the theft at Hoover's mill had been committed by them and they sold the eggs at Chambers and shipped the chicken coops to Gettysburg. He said that they disposed of the coops with the wagon and horse which they formerly used on local and distant trips to the Cash Soap Store of Gettysburg and that later the coops were sold to George Harris and Levi Riffe who reside about 10 miles from Gettysburg. Snyder then joined Constable Breizer and Mr. Hoover his wagon to find the coops. This alleged confession of one who is now in the penitentiary being the only testimony before the justice the charge was dismissed for insufficiency of evidence and Justice Potter in the case of Riffe gave him $100.00.

Helen of Troy

By Royal N. Green

Fred Erickson was heart-keen to the fact that he loved the girl, but, as yet, he had said nothing to her about it. In fact he had never spoken to her. They were not acquainted with each other.

It was what is called love at first sight—that is, as far as Fred was concerned. The first time he saw her she was sitting opposite him on a belt line car going from Albany to Troy, and his susceptible heart had gone pit-a-pat. Chance thrust them together often after that, but without an opportunity to become acquainted.

Erickson, a young lawyer located in Albany, should have been giving his whole attention to the theories of a practice that was yet to come. Instead, he dreamed the long office hours through, and all his dreams were of the fair unknown.

This fascinating girl was, in points of beauty, a maid to marvel at. Her eyes were dusky wells of midnight with long, dark lashes that half hid the depths of them, and the black of these contrasted strangely with the white of her satiny skin. All in all, she was, from her daintily arranged hair to the tips of her tiny shoes, the sweetest girl creation that had ever come to the ken of Fred Erickson. He longed to meet her.

Here romance stepped in.

If Helen Landen—this was her name—had ever cast a calculating eye over the tall, serious faced youth who appeared so frequently to her, she did so without due knowledge of what fates had in store.

Kingston's circus, a mighty army of tents, opened in Albany to play two dates, afternoon and evening, with all the pomp and ceremony of that dignified institution. Erickson attended the evening performance. Spangled performers crowded the three rings in marvelous act after act. An army of

Just as his satisfied hands came in contact with her, a velvet something brushed curiously across his face, and then suddenly dropped to his waist—their waists—and the two were lifted high in the air to be placed gently on the back of the elephant.

The girl gave a frightened half scream, and her little hands convulsively clutched the arm of her companion.

"What-what is it?" she gasped.

Erickson thrilled at her touch. "Don't be frightened," he said. "The big elephant has picked us up, and, for some reason, placed us on her back. Just at present, it is the safest place in the tent. We are out of the struggling crowd, and away from the tiger. Hello! What's happening?"

The elephant was beginning to move. Slowly, cumbrously, like the heavy body that it was, the great mass of flesh began to get under way and in a moment the two upon the beast's back found themselves under the starry sky. Save for a scurrying circus man, here and there, the stretch of green about the tents was deserted.

The girl kept tight hold of the exultant youth, although the broad back and gentle motion of the now rapidly moving beast were not calculated to precipitate a fall.

"O, I—I am so frightened," gasped the damsel. Her hands convulsively gripped the youth's arm. Erickson was not frightened. He was hilariously happy.

From behind them came hoarse shouts and the elephant, hearing quickened his pace. Had Erickson been a solitary rider, he would have slid to the ground, but now he was pleasantly impressed with a sense of guardianship.

"Keep up your nerve," came from the young attorney. "The elephant is running away with us, but he is not dangerous. We are safe enough. The keepers and circus men are trying to catch us."

Suddenly the beast plunged off the moonlit road and into a lane, slowing up and stopping as it came to a tall tree. The sensitive trunk cautiously rose to investigate the lower branches, and then, with a despairing squeal, a long-tailed spider-monkey was brought from a sheltering clump of leaves, and passed carefully back and into the very hands of Erickson.

The lawyer laughed.

"O, how sweet," ventured the girl, her fear suddenly gone. "And how do you suppose the elephant knew he was in this tree?"

"I'm sure I don't know. It seems to have been his sole errand for she is now going back."

Sure enough, the great beast was now retracing her footsteps.

In a few minutes she had come to the park that had been following her. With the sang froid of a calculating human, the animal reached a careful trunk around and placed her passenger, one at a time, on the ground. Then the same impressive organ relieved Erickson of his chattering charge, and without waiting for her escort the elephant ambled on, fanning a quizzical eye to her late riders as she did so.

It developed that the tiger was still a captive. The panic had been started by some mischief maker, but the rushing, scrambling crowd had alarmed the animals, and the monkey cage had been overturned by the crazy exit of the masses. The little simian rescued by the big pachyderm had been an especial pet of the trainer having Bess in charge. How she knew the monkey was hidden in the tree, no one knew.

"Well," said the girl, blushing as she turned to Erickson. "I am sure that I shall never care to see another circus."

"I shall always have a friendly feeling for them," answered the youth meaningly, and the flush on the girl's cheeks deepened to an alarming red.

"Inasmuch as it will be useless to attempt to find your escort, I must insist upon seeing you safely to your home."

"You don't have to—insist," answered Helen Landen, softly.

DEATH IN TERRIBLE SHAPE

One of the Most Horrible of All the Horrible Imaginings of Edgar Allan Poe.

The wife of one of the most respected citizens—a lawyer of eminence and a member of congress—was seized by a sudden and unaccountable illness which completely baffled the skill of her physicians. After much suffering she died, or was supposed to die. For three days the body was preserved unburied, during which it acquired a stony rigidity. The funeral, in short, was hastened on account of the rapid advance of what was supposed to be decomposition.

The lady was deposited in her family vault, which for three years was undisturbed. At the expiration of this term it was opened for the reception of a sarcophagus; but, alas, how fearful a shock awaited the husband, who personally threw open the door. As its portals swung outwardly back, some white appareled object fell rattling within his arms. It was the skeleton of his wife in her yet unmoiled shroud.

A careful investigation rendered it evident that she had revived within two days of her entombment, that her struggles within the coffin had caused it to fall from a ledge or shelf to the floor, where it was so broken as to permit her to escape. On the uppermost steps which led down to the dread chamber was a large fragment of coffin, with which it seemed that she had endeavored to arrest attention by striking the iron door. While thus occupied, she probably swooned or possibly died through sheer terror, and in falling her shroud became entangled in some iron work which projected interiorly. Thus she remained and thus she rotted erect—Edgar Allan Poe.

"O. What a Great Beast."

clowns capered to queer pranks, and as always, the circus was a pulsating success—a sandy glittering success.

After the concert, Erickson and a friend found themselves leisurely strolling through the menagerie tent. A mighty elephant, almost the peer of the famous Jumbo in size, interested them. Its crafty eyes were sparkling with intelligence. Its calm, calculating survey of the curious ones who gathered to do it honor, was majestic and regal. Its swaying trunk, vitally restless, raised itself above them occasionally as if delivering a benison.

A tinkling cadence of girlish laughter from behind the youth again caused the erratic heart vibrations in his breast, responsive to only one maid, and Erickson turned. His face flushed as he gazed at her. She was with an elderly person—evidently her father. Her mother's cause the youth to fear for himself. It seemed to him that he must turn and crush her in his arms.

"O what a great beast!" The girl turned to her father. "I wonder if she is cross?"

The elderly person looked inquiringly toward a keeper who stood at some little distance.

"Not at all," answered the attendant. "Mildest and most amiable in captivity, and the loveliest. Bess here knows more than folks, she does."

The girl stepped daintily forward, a smile curving her red lips, and the pert little nose of her's wrinkled in amusement.

"I'm going to tell her," she said. The elephant attentively listened an absurdly small bon bon, and seemed to wink a knowing eye at Erickson who glared anxiously.

"The tiger is out!" A hoarse voice raised the cry and in an instant the tent was mob mad. Women screamed and fainted. Children wailed and men cursed. To add to the pandemonium, the keeper's whistle whirled desperately in the wind, raised by the panic-stricken crowd—and went out. A tame scold ran above the tent and an animal chorus quickly responded. Elephants trumpeted, lions roared. The crowd lifted their voices in shrieking screams and confusion was the order of the day.

Erickson stretched himself sideways, recovered himself, and reached out a hand to the girl. The girl's eyes were fastened on a tiger in a cage that a fly would enter a window long years that it has left the scene.

FELT THE HOME INCOMPLETE

Peculiar Piece of Valuable Bric-a-Brac Excited the Envy of Magazine Editor.

The editor of one of the leading magazines of New York has a viewpoint which often cheers his friends. His social affairs are such that—on some occasions he and his wife dine in the homes of sumptuous wealth, while on other occasions they partake of chafing dish spreads in the candle-light studios of artists more or less struggling.

Not long since they dined with a family where the evidences of wealth were numerous. Among them was a platter of rare and costly porcelain. Mrs. Editor was enthusiastic over the beauty of it and its priceless antiquity, and the hostess called attention to the fact that it had been broken many times and that the pieces were riveted together with gold. In fact, she had a servant pass it around for examination to show how badly it had, on different occasions, been shattered, and how, on the back, it showed a mass of gold fillets.

The next morning, when the editor came to his own breakfast table, he appeared to be in a chastened, not to say, depressed, frame of mind. Mrs. Editor inquired the cause.

"Yes," he mused, reflectively, looking around on the dainty table and at the neat little apartment. "Yes, it is a comfortable and well-kept little home, but—so—ah—my dear—so sort of unriveted."

"Act Well Your Part."

But there is one great, striking difference between the theatrical stage and the great drama of human life. On the former, as a rule, the leading lights—the star actors and actresses—get most of the applause; those who are forced to play the lesser roles often get but scant notice. But on the great, wide stage where the Author of our being is both judge and audience, it matters not what part we play—whether it be prominent or obscure—provided we play it well. The hod-carrier and the poor washwoman, who perform conscientiously and exactly the duties of their lowly state, may be far more pleasing to their Maker than the professional man, the monarch or the genius—certainly a consoling reflection.

Milk From Beans.

The Japanese have discovered a cheap substitute for the milk cow in the form of a tiny bean. The price, which is extracted by a special process from the bean, is said to be an excellent vegetable milk, the properties of which render it highly suitable for use in tropical countries. The preparation, according to the Java Times, is obtained from the soja bean, a member of the leguminous family of plants and a popular article of food among the poorer classes of Chinese and Japanese. In making the vegetable milk the beans are first of all softened by soaking and boiled in water. The resultant liquor is exactly similar to cows' milk in appearance, but is entirely different in its composition.

Man's Guardian Angels.

The following beautiful allegory is told among the Turks. Every man has two guardian angels, one on his right shoulder and one on his left. In doing good the angel on the right shoulder notes it down and sets his seal upon it, for what is done is done forever. When evil is committed the angel on the left shoulder writes it down, but he waits until midnight before he seals it. If by that time the man bows his head and says: "Gracious Allah, I have sinned, forgive me!" the angel blots out the fault, but if not he seals it at midnight and then the angel on the right shoulder weeps.

New Fly Trap.

A California man has taken advantage of the fact that flies always walk on a window by setting a trap to be fastened to a wire in such a manner that a fly will enter a window long years that it has left the scene.

THE STONY BRITISH GLARE.

Lord Crewe made a very interesting little speech the other day at the annual meeting of the Atlantic union, a society which works for the improvement of Anglo-American cordiality and of the relations between English men and men of other nations generally. He said that one grave cause of international misunderstanding was our "notorious stiffness of demeanor," and he referred to that delightful drawing by Du Maurier in Punch in which the table d'hôte of a foreign hotel in the slack season was depicted as populated only by two Englishmen, sitting at opposite ends of the table, glaring speechlessly at each other. All that he said was true enough. We are undemonstrative. We are not men and brothers the whole world round as we should be, and as we shall be when Robert Burns' millionth volume comes at last. If we may be allowed to say so, we can hardly picture Lord Crewe himself responding with a leap into the air and a postal bond to the "How do, sonny?" of an Ontario game manager. He would probably be stammeringly, but, alas! not so, and extend a timidly extended hand to the other who would take all the time and space of the Atlantic union would have to explain.—London Evening Standard

INJURIES TO CITIZENS—FINGER-
ERS LOST BY SAW—RUN OVER.The Peoples State Bank of East Berlin is being organized on $60 Share Basis, per $50

Rayton Thomas of Lattimore township lost two fingers of his right hand while sawing wood at Lewis Bayley's and a stick of wood turning threw his head against the chestnut saw, and nails were cut and mangled that physicians were compelled to ampu-tate them at once.

The Peoples State Bank of East Berlin is being organized. It will be capitalized at $50,000. 1000 shares are being offered at $50 a share and when the stock has been subscribed the bank would start with a surplus fund.
A number of business men of East Berlin are interested in the undertaking. N. W. Sell, W. C. Leiby, Michael Revert, Nathaniel M. Baker, D.
March and Frazier Altland of East Berlin, Wm. P. Baker of Abbotstown and A. S. Brown, of Red Run.

Harry, the five year old son of Howard Laughman, of East Berlin, fell in getting off a heavily loaded wagon and the wagon passed over one of his legs, crushing it between the knee and hip. The lad is recovering slowly.

The Berlin Railroad has erected danger signals at all crossings, and expect to make better time on the road.
They have also bought a carload of steel rails, and the repair force have begun to put them down. This road has been steadily improved by the present management.

Mrs. J. C. Lawrence of Conowingo township, was driving with her daughter and Miss Carrie Hemler, when their team collided with another team going in the opposite direction. Mrs.
Lawrence was thrown out by the collision and sustained cuts and bruises about the head, and one leg was injured. Other occupants escaped. The team vehicle, occupied by two men and a badly crushed wheel.

Elmer Yeagy has 22 skunks in captivity at home of his grandfather,
John Yeagy in Huntington township.
He captured the animals in steel traps, covering the jaws with cloth, so as not to injure the cats. If the high cruzes for hides does not result in the killing of the animals this fall, the young man proposes to start a skunk farm next summer.

An examination of the springs on the farm of Joseph Heikes, near Ber-landian, made by Col. H. C. Denning, State Mineralogist, discloses the fact that the springs contain valuable this water. He also found signs of petroleum and specimens of rock suitable for improved highway purposes and for the mixture of cement to make concrete for railroad ballast.

MR. SMITH STILL GUESSING

Mystery of Letter of Introduction Remains a Puzzle and Solution Seems Afar Off.

When a local professional man, whom we shall call Smith, received a call some time ago from a stranger bearing a letter of introduction from his friend Brown, Mr. Smith gave the man a cordial welcome. For Mr.
Brown is a close friend of Mr. Smith and he felt that any one recommended by him must be worthy of the highest esteem. He therefore laid himself out to be agreeable and helpful, in compliance with Brown's note. The stranger, whose name was Green, proved to be most agreeable on better acquaintance, and soon he and Mr.
Smith became fast friends. About this time Mr. Smith and his new friend planned to meet upon the street their mutual friend, Mr. Brown. Mr. Smith crasped the hand of Mr. Brown, greeted him warmly, and entered into conversation. Soon he noted that neither Brown nor Green displayed the slightest sign of recognition.
"Gord gracious!" he thought, "have they quarreled?"

But a further glance showed him no trace of anger in either, and he was more nonplussed than ever. At last he could endure the awkward situation no longer.

"Gentlemen," he explained, "surely you two are acquainted?"

"No," said Brown, "I never had the pleasure."

"No," cried Green, "I haven't had the pleasure."

"Well, I'll be confounded!" said Mr.
Smith. "Mr. Brown, Mr. Green, shake hands."

Which they did.

And now, dear reader, if you can figure out the answer, please inform Mr. Smith who wrote that letter, for that is what he has been trying to do all day long—this is the Gazette's task.

ALL OVER THE COUNTY

INJURIES TO CITIZENS—FINGERS LOST BY SAW—RUN OVER.

The Peoples State Bank of East Berlin is being organized on $60 Share Basis, par $50

Taylor Thomas of Latimore township lost two fingers of his right hand. He was sawing wood at Lewis Bushey and a stick of wood turning threw his hand against the circular saw, and fingers were cut and mangled that physicians were compelled to amputate them at once.

The Peoples State Bank of East Berlin is being organized. It will be capitalized at $50,000. 1000 shares are being offered at $50 a share, and when the stock has been subscribed the bank would start with a surplus fund. A number of business men of East Berlin are interested in the undertaking. N. W. Sell, W. C. Leib, Michael Revert, Nathaniel M. Baker, D. A. March and Frazier Altland of East Berlin, Wm. P. Baker of Abbottstown and A. S. Brown, of Red Run.

Harry, the five year old son of Howard Laughman, of East Berlin, fell in getting off a heavily loaded wagon and the wagon passed over one of his legs, crushing it between the knee and hip. The lad is recovering slowly.

The Berlin Railroad has erected danger signals at all crossings, and expect to make better time on the road. They have also bought a carload of steel rails, and the repair force have begun to put them down. This road has been steadily improved by the present management.

Mrs. J. C. Lawrence of Conowingo township, was driving with her daughter and Miss Carrie Hemler, when their team collided with another team going in the opposite direction. Mrs. Lawrence was thrown out by the collision and sustained cuts and bruises about the head, and one leg was injured. Other occupants escaped. The other vehicle, occupied by two men and a badly crushed wheel.

Elmer Yeagy has 22 skunks in captivity at home of his grandfather, John Yeagy in Huntingdon township. He captured the animals in steel traps, covering the jaws with cloth, so as not to injure the cats. If the high prices for hides does not result in the killing of the animals this fall, the young man proposes to start a skunk farm next summer.

An examination of the springs on the farm of Joseph Heikes, near Berntown, made by Col. H. C. Deming, State Mineralogist, discloses the fact that the springs contain valuable chalybeate water. He also found signs of petroleum and specimens of rock suitable for improved highway purposes and for the mixture of cement to make concrete for railroad ballast.

MR. SMITH STILL GUESSING

Mystery of Letter of Introduction Remains a Puzzle and Solution Seems Afar Off.

When a local professional man, whom we shall call Smith, received a call some time ago from a stranger bearing a letter of introduction from his friend Brown, Mr. Smith gave the man a cordial welcome. For Mr. Brown is a close friend of Mr. Smith and he felt that any one recommended by him must be worthy of the highest esteem. He therefore laid himself out to be agreeable and helpful, in compliance with Brown's note. The stranger, whose name was Green, proved to be most agreeable on better acquaintance, and soon he and Mr. Smith became fast friends. About this time Mr. Smith and his new friend chanced to meet upon the street their mutual friend, Mr. Brown. Mr. Smith clasped the hand of Mr. Brown, greeted him warmly, and entered into conversation. Soon he noted that neither Brown nor Green displayed the slightest sign of recognition. "Good gracious!" he thought, "have I been quizzed?"

But a further glance showed him no trace of anger in either, and he was surprised and even, at last he could order the awkward situation.

"Quizzed?" he explained, "surely not, as you are acquainted."

"No," said Brown, "I've had the same."

"No," said Green, "haven't had the same."

"What, then, is the matter?" said Mr. Smith.

"What they did," said Mr. Smith.

"And now, dear reader, if you can figure out the puzzle, please inform Mr. Smith who wrote that letter, for it is what he has been trying to do for ever since."

Do I speak frankly but kindly and discreetly to parents about their children and their progress?

Do I read a few standard works of literature each year?

Do I use good English language worthy of pupils to pattern after?

Do I write neatly?

Do I spell correctly?

Do I limit my pupils by long lectures?

Do I scold?

Do I teach my pupils self-reliance and make them able to help themselves?

Do I govern by fear?

Do I make my pupils self-governing?

Do I trust my pupils?

Do my pupils trust me, or do they regard themselves as on one side of a fence and me on the other, each having the privilege of poking the other?

Do I look after the health of my pupils?

Do I look after my own health properly?

Do I make the school room attractive?

Do I have a well arranged program and follow it?

Do I assign lessons definitely, and hold each member of the class responsible for honest preparation?

Do I have professional spirit and attend teachers' institutes, meetings and associations?

Do I try to belittle the work of my predecessor or through selfish motives tear down the reputation of other teachers?

Do I come to school early every day?

Is my school room floor littered with scraps, dirt, etc.?

Do I subscribe for a good school journal?

Do I ventilate the school room by means of a thermometer?

Do I "pick" at pupils?

For the Xmas Shopper.

December winds, oh blow
Into each shopper's ear

The thing that they should know
And learn to do each year:

Shriek loud: "SHOP EARLY!"

And moan to them sad tales
Of shop girls sadly worn

And sweep the tardy trails
Of those who wish to scorn

These words: "SHOP EARLY!"

December frosts, oh write
Upon each window pane,

In letters glistening bright,
In letters big and plain,

These words: "SHOP EARLY!"

December coin, oh shout
(For you can talk always),

Call all the shoppers out,
Tell them to mend their ways.

And shout: "SHOP EARLY!"

December papers, set
Your type of biggest size,

Lest you should fail to get
Before your readers' eyes

These words: "SHOP EARLY!"

Their Son's Pretty Wife.

There's an old-fashioned house in an old-fashioned town, and an old-fashioned couple dwells there; the furniture, too, is old-fashioned and brown, there's an old-fashioned clock by the stair.

Now a new-fashioned daughter to this old-fashioned home, came one day bringing sunshine and cheer, and one of the very first plans that she laid, was to brighten this old place so drear.

So she bought some Chi-Namel and soon to the place, was imparted a share of her own winsome grace, each room in the house gleams with beauty and life, and the old folks are proud of their boy's pretty wife.

All colors of Chi-Namel varnishes and Ready-to-use Graining Process for sale at our store. Sold by J. H. Colli-flower.

J. R. HARTMAN, residing near New Oxford, will return to the milling business. He has rented from A. F. Hostetter the former Hafer mill on the Big Conowago in Hamilton township and will take charge of same in the spring. He conducted the New Oxford Flouring Mills for a number of years.

GOOD NEWS.

Many Gettysburg Readers Have Heard It and Profited Thereby.

"Good news travels fast," and the thousands of bad back sufferers in Gettysburg are glad to learn that prompt relief is within their reach.

Many a lame, weak and aching back is bad no more, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. Our citizens are telling the good news of their experience with the Old Quaker Remedy. Here is an example worth reading:

Mrs. H. H. Ridinger, 25 Breckenridge St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I can endorse Doan's Kidney Pills just as highly today as I did two years ago when I publicly told of their merits. A member of my family was afflicted with backache and at night often had to get up and sit in a chair. The kidneys were weak and there were severe pains throughout the body. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally procured at the People's Drug Store and they brought relief from the first. As their use was continued, a great improvement was noticeable. I was led to try Doan's Kidney Pills by this person's experience and I am glad to say that I received relief from disagreeable symptoms of kidney trouble that had clung to me for some time. I cannot give Doan's Kidney Pills more praise than they deserve."

For sale by dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

WHO WITNESSED THE KILLING OF CHAPLAIN HOWELL.

Gives Identity of the Troops Passing Through Gettysburg on Morning of July 1, '63

A letter from Surgeon W. F. Osborn, of Baldwin, Kansas, answers the inquiry of Mrs. S. M. Stewart, of this place, addressed to the "National Tribune" as to the identity of the troops passing through Gettysburg on morning of July 1, 1863. The letter is as follows:

DEAR MADAM:
I have read your article in the National Tribune of Nov. 3d. You are correct in your impression that troops passed through the town on the morning of the 1st day of July, and that it was part of the First Corps.

It was the 2d Division of the 1st Corps, commanded by Gen. Robinson. The Division lay at Emmitsburg the night before and according to my diary was ordered to move on the morning of the 1st at 8 a. m. We marched straight to Gettysburg on the Emmitsburg road, passed through the town and took position west of Pennsylvania College. As near as I can recollect it was about 11 o'clock. Just before reaching the town an order was passed along not to excuse a man and hurry up. As we passed through the town our Surgeons selected the Lutheran church for our Division Hospital. I followed the command finally getting to the Theological Seminary which we used for a temporary Hospital until our forces were driven from the field. Not wishing to be captured out there I made my way as best I could, with the rapidly retreating troops, through shot and shell, to the Church Hospital previously selected, and there found most of our Surgeons. While going up the church steps with Chaplain Howell of the 50th Pa. he turned to look at the rebel forces as they began entering the town when he was struck in the forehead by one of their bullets and instantly killed. I got inside the building without delay and was there when a rebel officer appeared telling us to consider ourselves prisoners and remain there, and we did remain there until Saturday morning the 4th of July, 1863. The Chaplain and Surgeon of our regiment (the 11th Pa.) and myself got a room in the 3rd story of the brick building on the east side of the church occupied by a family by the name of McCreary, if I am not mistaken. My recollection is that the man was a hatter by trade--was a widower and had three maiden daughters living with him. One of them, the youngest, and myself were standing on the rear porch when a rebel bullet passed close to, if not between us, entering the wall of the house.

I have always wanted to go back there and to hear from that young lady but lost her name long ago and have not yet made a visit to the memorable Battlefield but hope to yet, even though I have reached the four score mark. It was my expectation to attend the dedication of the grand monument in September but failed to get there.

Very respectfully,
WM. F. OSBORN,
Late Asst. Surgeon 11th Pa. Inf.

Hail the Day of Womens' Suffrage.

Last week plans were made at Harrisburg by the State Women's Suffrage Association that suffrage for women should be made a live issue in Pennsylvania in the campaign of 1912. The following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, Our government is based upon the principle of equality and justice. It is

Resolved, That we reaffirm our belief that the exclusion of women from participation in political life violates these principles and makes the government not a democracy, but an oligarchy of sex.

The Compiler feels that it is a reflection upon manhood, upon the mothers of men, to delay women's suffrage. It is a reflection upon the age, upon civilization, upon intelligence, that women are not the political equals of men. There is no argument to be made withholding the right of suffrage from women or further delay in the matter. Opposition in this day will almost entirely come from hard heads to a change and from those interests in the community that would fear the cleansing, purifying women's vote. Already five states in the Union are committed to women's suffrage and it is no experiment, the result has been to ward the good and has been well worth while. May Corrupt and Contented Pennsylvania move rapidly forward to suffrage for women, for it will mean the dawn of a new era to the old Keystone State.

The fundamental principles of a Democratic system of government are that, everyone who has to obey the law shall have a voice in making it and every one who has to pay taxes shall have a voice in saving those taxes shall be spent.

In carrying out these principles a vote has been given to every one over 21 years of age, except criminals, lunatics, idiots, aliens and women and this political position of women is not right and there is but one big, manly negative answer to be made to the following proposition:

Is it right that the mother, the sister, the wife, or the daughter should be classed with criminals and lunatics, or treated as aliens from a foreign country?

Many women have to pay taxes on real or personal property.

Is it right that their money should be taken, and no representation given them?

Is it right that while the loafer, the gambler, the drunkard, and even the wife-beater has a vote, earnest, educated and refined women are denied it?

Is it right that the mother of a household should have a vote, while a woman who earns her own living, and it may be, rolls hard to maintain her family, is denied it?

Is it right that a capable woman who farms her own land, should be thought unfit to use a vote that is given to the most ignorant of her hired men?

Is it right that an educated woman who can be trusted to teach a school, cannot be trusted with a vote that is given to the boys she has educated before they have her years of knowledge?

Is it right that women should be considered wise and good enough to be school directors, and yet are not deemed wise or good enough to vote for school directors?

Is it right that a woman teacher should be expected to train boys in all the duties of good citizenship, while she herself is denied the supreme privilege of citizenship--the ballot?

Is it right that a mother who has trained her family in the fear of God, and who prays daily that they may be delivered from evil, should be thought unworthy of a vote that is freely given to the blasphemer, the liar, the profligate, the wife-beater, the gambler, and the drunkard?

Is it right that a woman should be considered a citizen in the tax-chamber and the criminal court and not at the polls?

MILD WINTER PREDICTED.

A Philadelphia Hunter Bases Prediction on Habits of Wild Animals.

Thomas Martindale, a well known hunter and sportsman, of Philadelphia who annually spends several weeks in the Maine woods makes for the fifth time weather predictions for the winter as follows:

For years I have been watching the habits of the lowly muskrat and that accomplished and industrious engineer and woodman, the busy, busy beaver.

Our greatest living naturalist, John Burroughs, has always laid great store by what sort of a winter residence the first of these animals would build in the late fall, and, based upon their doings, he would venture to prognosticate the coming weather, and his predictions were always verified.

In October, 1906, I noted that the deer had shed their summer coats of reddish hair and already were wearing their coats of gray; the muskrats had built their houses on top of the highest rocks in "our lake"; the beavers not only had built their dams of extra height, but they had cut a large quantity of wood for their winter's food; the wild ducks, cranes, loons, wading birds and the woodland songsters had taken their departure for the south very early; the swamps were full of water and the lake so high that when we came out we ran our canoes down "our stream" a distance of two and a half miles in eight and a half minutes.

From these various signs I predicted an early and cold winter, and the records showed that the prediction was verified with a vengeance, as it was one of the coldest winters on record in Maine.

Following this forecast I have annually ventured to predict the future weather, and in each case the predictions were amply verified. It must be remembered that my camp, or "our lake" is perhaps 1000 miles or more northeast of Philadelphia, and that is rather a long distance away upon which to base a forecast for this city, for while last winter in this section could not be called a mild winter by any means, yet in Maine it was a remarkably mild winter, for the fact that the first snowstorm of any magnitude didn't come until February. The steamers plowed through the waters of Moosehead lake up to the first week of December, and they were in commission again in April, and as a rule is not open for navigation until the middle of May.

I left the camp this year on the 29th of last October, and this was the situation as I had found it up to that time.

Out of perhaps a couple hundred deer which I saw during the many days of hunting upon my grounds, only three of them had gotten their coats of gray. The balance were clothed in their summer garb of red. The beaver had erected the largest and finest dam that I have ever seen constructed by these wonderful engineers. It was built but a few feet back of an old lumber dam, away up at the head of our stream. The structure was made, as usual, with alder bushes, cut down and twined together, with mud plastered upon the inside, and strengthened by many old pilings which they had removed from the old dam made by the lumbermen. On top of these pilings they had placed many flat stones to hold them in place, and all were interlaced with the alder bushes. This dam had two wings, and it flooded back a section of country perhaps a mile and a half or two miles long with a width, in places, of 500 feet or more. Now, this dam was all finished and was "chock" full of water, and yet there wasn't a single sign that I could discover of where they had been cutting down logs for their winter's sustenance. Evidently they were resting from their labors and not at all worried about the coming winter.

The muskrats, on the 18th, had not started to build upon any of the rocks which show above the surface of our lake. On the morning of the 20th before leaving, I made a detour by canoe around a large cove and found that only the previous night a house had been started upon a rock, which then showed above the water only thirteen inches, and it should be remembered that the lake was then lower than I had ever known it to be. In fact, we had to pack all of our stuff up the stream in going in, and in coming out, as well, as there wasn't enough water to float my canoe. About thirty yards away from the rock upon which the muskrats had started their house was another rock, towering some three feet four inches above the water, which the rats had built upon in 1906, but for this season they evidently were satisfied that a house built as high upon a rock as that one was unnecessary.

The ducks were still lingering on the lake. Among them were many large flocks of mergansers, a bunch of six black ducks, one old mallard drake, a pair of butterballs and a small bunch of whistlers. As we paddled around the cove one pair of great northern loons gave us one of their peculiar and hilarious laughs as a parting good-bye, while two blue herons slowly flapped their wings as they arose from the shores of the lake when we skirted around it.

On going up the Penobscot river we noted a number of "rat" houses built among the rocks in the center of the river, and all of them were with but a medium elevation above the water, considering the fact that when the fall rains come the river would certainly be raised considerably. Lastly, when we left, the swamps were all dry. Most of the springs were without a drop of water, and many brooks were without any running water, but with here and there a little stagnant pool, showing that formerly water did indeed flow over the smooth stones of that brook.

From all the above data I venture to predict that we will have a late fall and a moderate winter.

Why Not Raise Alfalfa.

Do Adams County farmers raise Alfalfa and if not, why not? Are they glued to a routine of farming after the methods of their fathers and their grandfathers, or are they alive to the continuous changes and improvements going on in their business, and if the latter why not raise alfalfa and get twice as much hay off the ground.

Professor Gardner of the State Agricultural College recently declared that the farmers of Pennsylvania should make every reasonable effort to establish alfalfa fields on their farms.

Alfalfa, he said, is a perennial plant, and makes good yields for a long term of years, and thus reduces the labor of caring for a given area of land.

"It is," he asserted, "a benefit to all soils on which it is grown, and by 15 years' experimentation at State College it has been conclusively proved that it can be grown to advantage in this State. An acre of good alfalfa produced twice as much hay as an acre of good clover."

Professor Gardner said that the failures which Pennsylvania farmers have encountered in attempting to grow this crop have been due to lack of information concerning its requirements, and that this information the State College would be only too glad to furnish upon request. It was quite possible, he said, to raise in Pennsylvania four, or possibly six crops of alfalfa a year under soil and other conditions required for its proper development.

Continuing, Professor Gardner said: "Alfalfa is naturally a warm weather plant, and should, therefore, not be sown too early in the spring or too late in the autumn. Our experience, as well as that of many successful growers in the State, causes us to prefer the first half of August for seeding alfalfa, seeding on land that has been prepared as above indicated and without the use of a nurse crop.

"Whether seeded in the spring with a nurse crop or seeded in the August without one, it is generally advisable to clip the alfalfa during the autumn of the first year. The clipping will cut many weeds and grasses before they mature seed, and should be made sufficiently high to leave plenty of stubble to protect the alfalfa during the winter. The clipping should be allowed to remain on the fields.

"Failure with alfalfa is sometimes the result of neglect to cut at the proper time. Alfalfa should generally be cut when the lower leaves begin to turn yellow or when buds are starting from the main stems at the surface of the ground. These buds are the commencement of the sowing crop, and the present crop should be removed as soon as they are nicely started, and before they get sufficiently long to be cut by the mower. Under average conditions, three cuttings should be obtained.

ONE OF THE OLDEST CITIZENS

MRS. CASSANDRA BARKER OF LITTLESTOWN PASSES AWAY.

Just Two Days Beyond Her 96th Birthday—Had enjoyed Good Health—Possessed a Remarkable Memory.

MRS. CASSANDRA BARKER, one of the oldest citizens of Adams county, passed peacefully away at her home in Littlestown on Tuesday, Nov. 22. The deceased celebrated her 96th birthday on Sunday, Nov. 20, just two days before her summons to the other world. Mrs. Barker was a remarkable lady for her age, and possessed all her faculties until the end came. She talked frequently with clearness, about events which occurred 85 and 90 years ago. She was born in 1814 on a farm near Seven Valleys, eight miles south of York, and was the daughter of Daniel Diehl, who owned a large farm and tannery near Ziegler's church, in North Codorus township. In 1833, 77 years ago, she was married to Joseph Barker, who died 30 years ago. In 1830, 90 years ago, the deceased entered a parochial school near her home, where she acquired her education during the succeeding eight years. Mrs. Barker had a wonderful memory, and often recalled the visit of General Lafayette in 1825. He passed up the turnpike from Baltimore to York in a stage on his way to Harrisburg. At that time there were soldiers in York county who had fought under the French general invited to visit this country as the "Guest of the Nation." Most of the Revolutionary soldiers then living went to York to see Lafayette, and he held a reception at the Globe Inn, which stood near the present site of the Colonial in Center Square. She delighted in telling of the meteoric shower in 1833. During the darkness of the night, meteors began to shoot through the upper regions of the atmosphere. People thought all the stars of the heavens were falling to the earth, and that the world was coming to an end. Mrs. Barker said that this incident to her was even more exciting than the battle of Gettysburg. She also told, in a very interesting way how the farmers cut their crops nearly a hundred years ago. In 1828 Mr. Hoke, of West Manchester township, York county, employed sixty men and women to reap a field of wheat. In 1829, her uncle, Adam Diehl, who lived on a farm adjoining that of her father, wanted to reap two fields of wheat on Wednesday and Thursday, but rain fell until the following Monday. Meantime his sons rode through the country, and even to York, securing eighty men and women to promise to help reap the two fields. The fields each contained about sixteen acres. Early on Monday morning sixty men and twenty women reached the Diehl farm. Forty men and women started at one end and forty at the other end, and in a few hours the entire crop of two fields was standing in shocks. At the time of her birth James Madison, the fourth president of the United States, was serving his second term, and she lived while twenty-two presidents were in office. Joseph Barker, her husband, built the Ocker House at Littlestown in 1848, and for a period of 20 years conducted it as a first class hotel. She is survived by two sons, Albert F. Barker of Hanover, and Charles B. Barker of Littlestown, and four daughters, Mrs. George Yount and Mrs. J. H. Miller of Littlestown, Mrs. Wm. T. Howard of Haddonfield, N. J., and Mrs. Charles T. Kump of Hanover. She is also survived by 18 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren. Funeral was on Friday, Nov. 25, services by Rev. John J. Hill, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, and interment in Mt. Carmel cemetery, Littlestown.

MISS JENNIE POLLY TROXEL died at her home on York street on last Saturday afternoon, aged 48 years, 3 months and 15 days. Death was due to heart disease and she has been in failing health for some time. She was a member of Trinity Reformed church and was a devoted daughter and sister. The funeral was held yesterday—Tuesday—afternoon, services being conducted by her pastor, Dr. T. J. Barkley and interment being made in the Evergreen cemetery. She is survived by her father ex-County Treasurer David Troxel, three sisters and one brother, Miss Fannie Troxel, at home, Mrs. Charles B. Dougherty, Mrs. Wm. D. Gilbert and Charles W. Troxel, all of Gettysburg.

JOHN MESSINGER was found dead on Tuesday morning, reclining against a stack of fodder on land of the estate of the late Jesse Sprengle a few hundred yards in rear of St. Vincent's Catholic church, by his son-in-law, Wm. G. Little, of Pine street, Hanover. The family physician pronounced the death due to apoplexy. Mr. Messinger, who was an employee of the W. M. R. Co. for many years, was forced to retire several months ago on account of ill health. Since then he has been dependent. He left home Monday morning about 8 o'clock, and not returning during the day, the family instituted a search which continued until 3 a. m. Tuesday, without avail. The discovery of the dead body later came as a shock to his relatives and friends, and as a consequence his wife is now under a physician's care, prostrated by grief. Deceased was a son of the late John Messinger, of Carroll county, Md., and was aged 58 years, 1 month and 5 days. He was married about 35 years ago to Miss Emma J. Duttera, daughter of Rufus Duttera of Littlestown, who survives him with two sons, Charles and Allen Messinger, at home, and three daughters, Mrs. Allen Herman of Philadelphia, Mrs. Wm. G. Little and Mrs. Hannon S. Ehrhart of Hanover. Two sisters, Mrs. Mary Harner of Hanover, Mrs. Sarah A. Bankert of Penn township, York county, and four brothers, Jacob Messinger, of near Taneytown, Md., George of Penn township, York county, David of near Littlestown, and Charles of Hanover, also survive. Funeral was on Thursday, Nov. 24, services by Rev. A. M. Heilman, and interment in Mt. Olivet cemetery, Hanover.

MRS. ESTHER BARRY, widow of the late John Barry, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. J. M. Adelsberger, in Emmitsburg on Thurs. of last week at the advanced age of 99 years, 4 months and 20 days. Until a week previous to her death she was enjoying remarkable health. Since that time she failed very rapidly. She was a personal friend of Mother Seton, the founder of the Sisters of Charity of Emmitsburg, she was a faithful and life-long member of the Catholic church. She was noted for her charitable deeds; her amiable nature won her many friends. She is survived by one son, Rev. Fr. John M. Barry, of Catonsville, and one step-son, Alouza M. Barry, of Port Deposit, Md.

MRS. ABIGAIL LITTLE, widow of David Little, died last Wednesday, Nov. 23d, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Kettle, of Hanover, aged 81 years, 2 months and 10 days. The deceased was a daughter of Henry Colehouse, of Union township, this county, and was married 61 years ago to David Little, son of David Little, of near Silver Run, Md., who died 12 years ago. She is survived by seven sons—Charles, William, Theodore, Rufus and George Little of Adams county; Edward Little, of Heidelberg township, York county, and Augustus Little, of Xenia, Ohio, and four daughters, Mrs. John Collins and Mrs. Charles King, of Adams county; Mrs. Amos Stair, of Heidelberg township, York county and Mrs. John Kettle, of Hanover. Two sisters, Mrs. Isaac Koontz, of near York, and Mrs. Zephaniah Horner, of near Two Tavers, Adams county, also survive. Funeral last Saturday, Nov. 26th, services by Rev. W. I. Redey and interment at St. Luke's Cemetery, near White Hall.

MRS. WILLIAM J. TROUP, of Hanover, met with death in a pathetic form. She was nursing her husband who was in bed powerless from paralysis, when paralysis overcame her. This was on last Friday evening and the next morning neighbors saw a light burning in the dining room and all the doors locked. They procured a ladder, effected an entrance through a second story window, and a most distressing sight met their gaze. Mrs. Troup was in an unconscious condition on the floor and her husband in bed powerless to help her. Mrs. Troup lingered until Sunday morning, when she passed away, aged 74 years, 1 month and 28 days. She is survived by her husband, two sons, Edward J. Troup, of Hanover; and Calvin H. Troup, of Bellefonte, Pa., and one daughter, Mrs. Catharine Thomas of Hanover. She is also survived by a sister, Mrs. Mary Alwood, of Hanover, and three brothers, Adam Becker, of Midway; John Becker, of Hanover, and Henry Becker, of Conowingo township, Adams Co. Funeral on Tuesday, November 29th. Services by Rev. A. M. Heilman, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran church. Interment in Mt. Olivet Cemetery. The condition of Mr. Troup is very critical.

MRS. BERTHA NESS, the young wife of John Ness, of York, died last Wednesday night, after a brief illness. Mrs. Ness was married about one year ago, and the daughter of Mr. C. M. Hikes, of East Berlin, and moved to York about eight months ago. She was aged 18 years, 3 months and 9 days. The remains of Mrs. Ness and a still born son were buried at the Stoverstown church, York Co., services by Rev. Frederick Geesey. The deceased is survived by her husband, her father, 3 brothers and 3 sisters, all of East Berlin.

MRS. LYDIA WEAVER, wife of Jonas Weaver died at her home in Mountpleasant township, Adams county, near New Oxford last Saturday, Nov. 26, after an illness of two weeks with typhoid fever. She was aged about 33 years. The deceased is survived by her husband and two children—who are ill with typhoid fever—Walter, aged 13 years, and Aneta Viola, a five-year-old daughter. She is also survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Heck, of Hanover; one sister, of Mountpleasant township, and several brothers. The deceased resided in Hanover for a number of years, having moved to Adams county two years ago. Funeral on Tuesday, Nov. 29. Interment in Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Hanover. Rev. M. J. Roth, pastor of Trinity Reformed Church, officiating.

LEO P. NACE, aged 75 years, 7 mos. and 25 days, died Nov. 25 at the home of his son, Samuel Nace, in Gettysburg, after a year's lingering illness, suffering with a heart affection. He was a son of the late George and Marguerite Nace, of near Hanover, and is survived by one daughter, Mrs. John Low, of Baltimore, and four sons—Samuel and William, of Gettysburg; Charles, of Reading, and John, of Baltimore; also, eleven grandchildren and four sisters, Mrs. James Miller, of Hanover, Misses Sallie and Maria Nace, of Littlestown, and Mrs. John O'Connor, of Bittinger's, Adams Co.

JACOB STERNER, an esteemed citizen of Jackson township, York Co., died Wednesday, Nov. 23, after a brief illness, from colic, aged about 52 years. Deceased is survived by his wife and six children—Jacob, Raymond, Mrs. Hiland, Miss Maude and Miss Annie Sterner, all at home; and Emory Sterner, living in Berwick township, Adams county. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Jacob Breighner, of Edgegrove, Adams Co.; Mrs. Alice Bievenour, of Paradise township, and one brother, Franklin Sterner Berwick township, Adams county. Funeral on Monday morning, November 28th. Services at Paradise Catholic church and interment in the cemetery adjoining.

LAWRENCE J. WARREN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Warren, of Stratton street, died on last Friday night, in a Pittsburg hospital, from injuries received when an elevator fell upon him in the Woolworth five and ten cent store in Pittsburg last Wednesday. He had been employed in the store for some time, and while riding in elevator fell down the shaft and car on him. He received internal injuries in addition to a fractured leg and a dislocated ankle. His father received a telegram from the hospital and went at once to him. The body was brought here and funeral held on Monday, with interment in Evergreen cemetery. He is survived by his parents and one brother, Norman.

JAMES SHULTZ, of Ridgeley, West Virginia, died from injuries received in an accident, while coupling cars, aged 31 years, 8 months and 21 days. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Susan Kelly, and three children, Edna, Anna and James, also by his mother, Mrs. Emma Shultz of Orrtanna, Miss Edith of Gettysburg, John Shultz of East Pittsburg, George Shultz of Dawson, Maryland, Charles Shultz of Aspers Sta., Frank and Harry of Ridgeley, W. Va.

MRS. ANNIE F. MILLER, wife of John Miller, of Liberty township, died at her home in that township on last Saturday morning, aged about 50 years. Death was due to heart disease and dropsy. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon, services in the Methodist church at Fountaindale and interment in the adjoining burial ground. She leaves besides her husband one son and is survived by her mother, Mrs. Margaret Tressler, four brothers and one sister, Harry Tressler and Fleet Tressler, of Blue Ridge Summit, Andrew Tressler, Harvey Tressler and Mrs. Chas. Warren, all of Liberty township.

The Wolf.

Eugene Walter's great play of life in the Canadian Hudson Bay country, is announced for presentation in this city Wednesday evening at the Walters' Theatre, with all its trappings, stage accessories, elaborate scenery and light effects, precisely the same as seen in New York and Chicago.

Mr. Alan Dale, the celebrated writer on the "New York American," said in the issue of that paper of April 20th: "Let me say right here without further parley, that in 'The Wolf,' Mr. Eugene Walter has most assuredly confirmed our impression that he is a 'find.' His second play is a melodrama, vivid but primitive, vital but unfringed. It is direct, terse, capitally written, sincere and free from conventional flappodoodle.

"The Wolf" hit the first-nighters in spite of all. This was an achievement. It was a great feat. It proved beyond the peradventure of a doubt that young Mr. Walter is made of the right dramatic stuff.

"Paid in Full" was not a fluke. It was the work of an artist. For further particulars apply to 'The Wolf.'

"When one recalls this young playwright's own admission that just before the production of 'Paid in Full' he was sleeping in the parks and struggling for the right to nourish his poor outward shell, one cannot help applauding the fine hand of eternal justice.

"Everything comes to him who waits' is apparently correct. It is a nice and consoling thing to believe in.

"Apparently Mr. Walter has not seen many plays and therefore doesn't know how managers actors and claque expect them to be done. He does them his own way, which is a mighty good thing to do. Whatever may be the fate of 'The Wolf,' it has proven Mr. Walter's right to be looked upon as perhaps the only serious dramatic proposition that this season has set forth. If he can give us one play a year, we may think ourselves lucky. He will give us a good play."

LICENSE NOTICE.

In the Court of Quarter Sessions of Adams County: It is ordered that all applications for licenses for the sale of wines, spirituous, malt, or brewed liquors, wholesale or retail, for the year 1911, will be heard on FRIDAY, the 13th day of JANUARY, 1911, at 10.30 a. m., at which time all persons applying or making objections to applications, will be heard by evidence, petition, remonstrance or counsel. There must be no communication at any time with the Judges personally upon the subject, by letter or any other private way.

The petition verified by affidavit of applicant, shall be in conformity with the requirements of the Acts of Assembly. Judgment should be executed in the penal sum of $2000, with no less than two reputable freeholders of the county where the liquors are to be sold, as sureties, each of them to be a bona-fide owner of real estate in the said county, worth over and above all incumbrances, the sum of $2000, or other legal security to be given. Bond conditioned for the faithful observance of all the laws relating to the selling or furnishing of liquors, and to pay all damages which shall be recovered against the licensee, and all costs, fines and penalties, which may be imposed on him under any indictment for violating said laws; and the sureties may be required to appear in Court and justify upon oath.

The Court shall in all cases refuse the application whenever in the opinion of the Court, having due regard to the number and character of the petitioners for and against such applications, such license is not necessary for the accommodation of the public and entertainment of strangers and travelers, or that the applicant is not a fit person, to whom such license should be granted. Petition to be filed with the Clerk of the Courts not later than SATURDAY, the 17th day of DECEMBER, 1910. Objections and remonstrances to be filed not later than Tuesday, the 3rd day of JANUARY, 1911. Upon sufficient cause being shown or proof being made to the Court that the party holding a license has violated any law of the Commonwealth relating to the sale of liquors the Court shall, upon notice being given to the person licensed, revoke the license.

S. McC. SWOPE, Pres. Judge.

ALL OVER THE COUNTY

INJURIES TO CITIZENS—FINGERS LOST BY SAW—RUN OVER.

The Peoples State Bank of East Berlin is being organized on $60 Share Basis, par $50

Clayton Thomas of Latimore township lost two fingers on his right hand. He was sawing wood at Lewis Bushey and a stick of wood turning threw his hand against the circular saw, and fingers were so cut and mangled that physicians were compelled to amputate them at once.

The Peoples State Bank of East Berlin is being organized. It will be capitalized at $50,000. 1000 shares are being offered at $50 a share and when the stock has been subscribed the bank would start with a surplus fund. A number of business men of East Berlin are interested in the undertaking. N. W. Sell, W. C. Leib, Michael Rebert, Nathaniel M. Baker, D. A. March and Frazier Altland of East Berlin, Wm. P. Baker of Abbottstown and A. S. Brown, of Red Run.

Harry, the five year old son of Howard Laughman, of East Berlin, fell in getting off a heavily loaded wagon and the wagon passed over one of his legs, crushing it between the knee and hip. The lad is recovering slowly.

The Berlin Railroad has erected danger signals at all crossings, and expect to make better time on the road. They have also bought a carload of steel rails, and the repair force have begun to put them down. This road has been steadily improved by the present management.

Mrs. J. C. Lawrence of Conowago township, was driving with her daughter and Miss Carrie Hemler, when their team collided with another team going in the opposite direction. Mrs. Lawrence was thrown out by the collision and sustained cuts and bruises about the head, and one leg was injured. Other occupants escaped. The other vehicle, occupied by two men and a badly crushed wheel.

Elmer Yeagy has 22 skunks in captivity at home of his grandfather, John Yeagy in Huntington township. He captured the animals in steel traps, covering the jaws with cloth, so as not to injure the cats. If the high prices for furs does not result in the killing of the animals this fall, the young man proposes to start a skunk farm next summer.

An examination of the springs on the farm of Joseph Heikes, near Bersudian, made by Col. H. C. Demming, State Mineralogist, discloses the fact that the springs contain valuable lithia water. He also found signs of petroleum and specimens of rock suitable for improved highway purposes and for the mixture of cement to make concrete for railroad ballast.

MR. SMITH STILL GUESSING

Mystery of Letter of Introduction Remains a Puzzle and Solution Seems Afar Off.

When a local professional man, whom we shall call Smith, received a call some time ago from a stranger bearing a letter of introduction from his friend Brown, Mr. Smith gave the man a cordial welcome. For Mr. Brown is a close friend of Mr. Smith and he felt that any one recommended by him must be worthy of the highest esteem. He therefore laid himself out to be agreeable and helpful, in compliance with Brown's note. The stranger, whose name was Green, proved to be most agreeable on better acquaintance, and soon he and Mr. Smith became fast friends. About this time Mr. Smith and his new friend chanced to meet upon the street their mutual friend, Mr. Brown. Mr. Smith grasped the hand of Mr. Brown, greeted him warmly, and entered into conversation. Soon he noted that neither Brown nor Green displayed the slightest sign of recognition.

"Good gracious!" he thought, "have they quarreled?"

But a furtive glance showed him no trace of anger in either, and he was more nonplussed than ever. At last he could endure the awkward situation no longer.

"Gentlemen," he explained, "surely you two are acquainted?"

"No," said Brown; "haven't had the honor."

"No," echoed Green; "haven't had the pleasure."

"Well, I'll be swizzled!" said Mr. Smith. "Mr. Brown, Mr. Green. Shake hands."

Which they did.

And now, dear reader, if you can figure out the answer, please inform Mr. Smith who wrote that letter, for that is what he has been trying to find out ever since.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

ALL MY PIMPLES GONE.

Girl Tells How a Blotchy Skin Was Cleansed by a Simple Wash.

"I was ashamed of my face," writes Miss Minnie Pickard of Altamaw, N. C. "It was all full of pimples and scars, but after using D. D. D. Prescription I can say that now there is no sign of that Eczema, and that was three years ago."

D. D. D. has become so famous as a cure and instant relief in Eczema and all other serious skin diseases, that its value is sometimes overlooked in clearing up rash, pimples, black-heads and all other minor forms of skin impurities.

The fact is, that while D. D. D. is so penetrating that it strikes to the very root of Eczema or any other serious trouble, the soothing Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients are so carefully compounded there is no wash for the skin made that can compare with this great household remedy for every kind of skin trouble.

D. D. D. is pleasant to use, perfectly harmless to the most delicate skin, and absolutely reliable. A 25 cent bottle will give you positive proof of the wonderful effectiveness of this great remedy. People's Drug Store.
